

THE 9 LETTERS OF CHRIST. LETTER III

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=zGBxD7z9v34>

Christ returns and reveals his truth.

Complete letter 3. Since these cards introduce you to a spiritual and mental dimension that transcends the human plane of activities and affairs, they will be better assimilated if they are preceded by a time of stillness and relaxation. Quiet the mind, if possible, by entering a state of inner silence of thought. It is only in this way, being in this completely receptive state, that these cards will penetrate your human thought with their reality. My unlimited heavenly love drives me to return again and again to write to Humanity with the intention that you will finally be prepared to receive it. You will possess the knowledge that will allow you to transcend your Humanity and merge with the Father consciousness, which is the true loving consciousness in which all generous and precious things are realized. As I have said before and want to reiterate, my entire mission on Earth was driven by love and was directed solely at teaching the truth of existence, since without this knowledge there is no hope of redemption from the hard work that Humanity has to endure.

I know that this statement will bring a lot of regret to the sincere and dedicated followers of the Christian religion and to those who have focused their faith entirely on the person of Jesus, but I tell you the truth, to succeed in getting rid of humanity that holds you back from the full realization of universal truth and the understanding of the true nature of the human spiritual condition that I called the Kingdom of God, you must turn away from the old dogmas of salvation by the "blood of the lamb," the Trinity, and others. beliefs. and come with a mind perfectly open and receptive to the Truth of existence. No other salvation is possible. God cannot save you, since being ignorant of the facts of existence, man will continue making the same earthly mistakes until the end of time and thus creating his own illness and misery, what is more, whatever the belief. . of man regarding salvation from sins, this is a human fallacy, since the law of cause and effect is imponderable and is an inherent and intrinsic natural characteristic of existence. You cannot divorce the effects from the cause and you cannot erase the cause and still have the effects. At every level of being this is the truth. You may now be sufficiently advanced in your thinking to be able to receive the following fundamental truth regarding your earthly existence. The law of cause and effect, sowing and reaping, is the visible effect of what you call electromagnetism and no one who has knowledge of science would expect God to leave aside the laws of electromagnetism, which are activity, adhesion, rejection. Activity, adhesion, rejection, movement, attraction and repulsion are the fundamental impulses of existence and of human consciousness itself. In the light of the spiritual truth of Christ, the doctrines lose their meaning and are quickly disposed of by the enlightened mind, which have brought about your visible forms of life and are the only instruments or tools of Creation. They are responsible for the formation of substance or matter and also for the development of individualized forms and, finally, for the personality itself in all living entities.

Since these Laws are fundamental for your individualized existence, it is impossible to leave them aside, therefore you cannot ignore the problems inherent in your individualized existence and believe that God will save you. Their only hope of final escape from the wheel of human experience is to recognize and admit them and then work minute by minute to transcend them and in the end merge and become one in purity of mind, heart and action with the consciousness of the Universal Love, the Father, who does the loving work. At the same time, as you grow in the knowledge of the true nature of the Father within and beyond you and all around you, you will come to have a constant faith that you can call upon in all circumstances to draw inspiration, power and elevation directly from the Father who is within you and around you. You will come to know that it is really the Father who supports you and guides you towards the Kingdom of Father-Love Consciousness. You will see abundantly clear that while the Father is universal, he is also individual to you. He knows you, he is aware of your thinking and your problems. Within the consciousness of Father-Love, the perfect solutions are waiting for you to be recognized by you. When you recognize them you will be free from pain. When there are two of you and you are willing to listen. As long as you are not willing to listen, you will never fully receive the consciousness of the Father-Love. I will tell you a parable: "Imagine a child who is screaming and kicking, because he wants ice cream all the time. While he is making this noise, his father is waiting patiently at the door of his room, to show him that he has brought him ice cream and fruit." You may think this parable is improbable, however it is true. Mothers will remember the times when their children have been heartbroken about something, refusing to listen to what the mother wants to tell them so much, yet the mother has the solution waiting for them as soon as they calm down and dry their tears.

I see the hard work of people and their crying and tears, and my compassion is limitless. You are being heard. But within the context of your current consciousness there is little I can do. I cannot penetrate the bonds and chains of your years of ignorant thinking and acting. I see the pain perpetrated in churches, in celebrations and pulpits by ignorant sermons. I see nations and their people trying so hard to resolve the difficulties that arise from traditional values, cultures and religious beliefs. I see the limitations in your daily life. The lack of satisfaction of their needs and their purposes, and the suffering that emanates from relationships of all kinds. The collective consciousness that is emanating from the world is a miasma of fears, resentments, anger and emotional turbulence, of passionate desires, revenge and exhaustion interwoven with compassion and the determination to raise the consciousness of the world. Dedication to the pursuit of unconditional love from those who have received inspiration and a degree of enlightenment. I approach people who call me and work with them to alleviate their distress but their mental schema and beliefs are so strongly imprinted in their brains that my truth cannot reach them to bring new knowledge to their minds. Many people have heard, albeit briefly and imperfectly, but have lacked the courage to accept new ideas and speak clearly. Furthermore, it has not been the ideal time to cross the barriers of human consciousness to teach you, but now is the time.

You have entered a new dispensation of vibratory frequencies that will enable you to rise more easily from the materiality of the previous era. This statement may sound strange, but there is a reservoir of knowledge regarding energies that you have not yet begun to understand. At this moment there is no earthly mind capable of understanding it, you can only imagine the spectrum of energy, which is not the truth. Therefore it will help you, if you can accept my statements by accepting them with your eyes closed, because they are the Truth. You are entering new vibration frequencies specific to human consciousness, which will allow you to move forward in the spiritual-mental development that I described in letter 1.

Because I have diverged, I must reiterate: "There is no escape from the Fundamental Laws of existence. The one relating to your thinking and feeling, sowing and reaping, just as you cannot escape the laws of electromagnetism in your material world, since electromagnetism is the impulse that produces the law of sowing and reaping in the same way that electromagnetism produces the form within the fundamental field of energy particles", and thus it is not possible to continue believing in Christian dogma and also try to follow these letters, because the dogma regarding salvation through my death on the Cross, the Trinity, the physical resurrection of death and the use of incense and the fixed forms of prayer, are erroneous and the facts that are now being presented to you in these letters are the Truth. Dogma and sacramental trappings are what could be called pretexts to gain your attention and loyalty, but they obscure the Truth of my teachings, therefore these letters had to be written.

The only way I could reach the world in this present moment when it is in balance to enter a new divine mental/emotional design, was to use a receptive, obedient and deprogrammed mind to receive the instruction and do the manual work by Me. These cards offer the only means by which people will find their way to the spiritual dimension in which all human error vanishes and only Love remains. Anything else that can be said is purely rationalization and human reason and these are not true. . People are looking for new ways to solve old problems especially in America, but until they understand the true nature of Life, the ego and the laws of existence, they will only strengthen the pull of the ego and their pain will continue. Remember as I record in the following pages the simple Truth that I spoke two millennia ago. This Truth remains constant and firm, therefore it is only possible to deepen your understanding of the Truth, not change it. You have realized, as you have read the first two letters, that everything the people of Palestine talked about was a direct consequence of having perceived the reality of existence in the desert. "That nothing was solid."

I have remembered that in my transcendent state, when looking at the rocks, sand, mountains and water below in the Dead Sea, everything seemed to be like a “flickering of specks” (twinkle): the rocks, sand, mountains and water differed as much as possible. One from the other simply by the difference in the intensity of the “flickering” (scintillation) of speckles and by the apparent density of speckles within the flash. There is no other way I can describe what I saw when I was on Earth to convey the facts concerning the true substance of matter, the fabric and seemingly solid construction of the world. In modern speech, the “flickering” of speckles would probably be called a vibration of particles. Perhaps the two terms could be combined and describe the most fundamental visible reality, as a flash of particles. This transmits the sense of the luminous incandescence in which the particles will vibrate.

Having said all the above as an introduction to the report of my activities in Palestine, let me take you to another day 2000 years ago, when the sun shone and the sky was clear light blue and I began to climb the hills with my disciples in an attempt to retreat to rest, meditate and pray, but that was not going to open. We had thought about escaping, but despite telling people our intentions, first a few followed us and then told others that we were going to the mountains. Although we begged them to return to their homes, the few then swelled into a large gathering of people following us at some distance. They insisted that I talk to them. You may wonder why they were so eager to listen to me. By intuition they knew that he spoke words of life to them. I always showed them the activity of the Father around them and this gave them hope and helped them see the world with a new vision. I told them about love and they felt comforted.

It was because of this that I was able to say to them, knowing that they would understand me and agree with me, “Come to me, you who are weary and burdened, and I will give you rest. “My yoke is bearable and my burden is light.” They knew that when he spoke these words as he often did, he was comparing the rules and laws of the Jewish leaders with the Truth he presented to the people. So it was that when I was implored by the people to teach them, “What could I do but sit on a rock above them and teach?” I was determined that by coming from so far to hear me they would hear something, remember it and talk about it for a lifetime. He knew that despite everything He had told them about the Father and the Father's love, they were still afraid that God would reject them. Although he had tried to help them understand that the Father, of whom he spoke, was not the personalized god to whom they worshiped. He knew very well that they were confused. Although I had told them time and time again that the Father was within them, they were still worried that they might incur punishment from Above for believing my words. “What should I teach them that day?” I asked the Father. Then I noticed the goats and sheep grazing on the hill under the watchful care of their shepherd and the message for that day entered my mind.

I stood up and shouted so that my voice could be heard to the back of the crowd: “See these sheep and goats grazing on the hills. The sheep are in one place and the goats in another. Consider the sheep. They are patient and peaceful with each other. Even when they are squeezed into a corner of the pen. They graze quietly, never claiming land that is not theirs, leaving the grass short but not damaged, allowing the grass to recover after passing over it. What is more important is that they listen to the voice of the shepherd, therefore he takes care of them and Take them to the best pastures and sleep with them at night so that they are not threatened or attacked by dogs or thieves!" "Look at the goats, how they climb and jump over rocks and get into difficult or dangerous places. They tear off brambles and foliage from trees. If it were not for their usefulness to man, there would be no place for them other than being tied up all day or being banished to the desert. I look at you down there and I know that among you there are many sheep and that there are also many goats among you!. There were a few angry murmurs, but generally people said to each other, "You are, you are not," joking and teasing each other gently, pointing at the goats, laughing and nodding. It was good to see them laughing, and so I continued: "you know the sheep by their homes, the way they treat their neighbors, and how they are seen by the entire community. This is also how goats are known. They might have a lot of friends!" There was a loud clamor from the crowd. It wasn't followed by much laughter. "The shepherd follows the goats to take care of them or they must take care of themselves and come home alone at night to be milked." Again the crowd laughed and responded in different ways, some very funny and clever. "I And so it is with those who are sheep and those who are goats, those who are sheep receive the protection of the Father, and those who are goats do not, because they go stubbornly following their own desires every day and possibly leaving a trail of destruction. behind." Tell me! Can the Father protect him who is a goat?

The crowd was silent, but listening attentively. "Will you say then that the Father is angry with the goats and does not want to protect them, or will you rather say that, just as the shepherd takes care of his sheep and would take care of the goats if they allowed him, the Father loves the sheep and the goats equally. , but it cannot protect them equally because of the natural behavior of goats!" "Also consider the feeding habits of sheep and goats. Sheep are content to eat only grass, for which their stomachs are perfectly designed, but goats eat anything they can find without respecting their constitution at all. That's how it is with people who don't respect the food of their minds. Since it has no fixed goal or clear purpose, goats do not recognize when mental food is harmful or taking them where they should not go in their daily lives, or directing them toward a harmful myth or dangerous fallacy. They go aimlessly, collecting the mental equivalent of sauces, shoes, old pieces of cloth, thistle leaves or weeds, because they lack common sense.

A man shouted to me: "Teacher, what if a person is a sheep, makes a mistake and finds himself in a mess, will the Father abandon him?" I responded with a question: "What does the shepherd do if one of his sheep falls into a hole or off a cliff, or if it gets caught in some sauce?" "I'll tell you", "The shepherd leaves the flock and quickly goes in search of the lost sheep and will not leave it until he brings it back safely, that's how it is with the Father" "Not even a sheep can avoid making mistakes in some way." or another, but rest assured that the Father will immediately respond to his request and rescue him and if a goat begins to behave like a sheep and listens to the voice of the shepherd then she will also be under the protection of the shepherd and will be cared for just like the sheep. So it is with you and the Kingdom of Heaven, the Kingdom of God."

Several voices were heard asking me to tell them the meaning of the Kingdom of God: "What I am telling you is not like what you have heard from any prophet at any time. Do not try to understand what I tell you by thinking about what you have heard from your Teachers. They can only repeat what is from the scriptures and have no personal knowledge of the Kingdom of God or Heaven.

God does not dwell in any place, but is everywhere, as are the heavens and the air above you.” “The Holy Word spoke the Truth when it said: “In God you live, you move and you have your being.” “Since the Kingdom of God is above, around and also within you and you can enter the Kingdom of God.” People cried impatiently: But what is it? “It is a state of mind and heart, which is fully possessed by God the Father. When you are in that state, the Father is the head of the body and directs everything you do and your entire life.” Some people said grumbling: "How is that? Is it possible to be so empty of ego, of selfish desires, of enmities, of anger, of jealousy, of greed and of resentments, that only God is left in control within your life?" mind and heart?" “And then what happens?” one woman asked, “Then you enter the state of being, which is being directed by God who is totally beautiful and glorious. Is love; It is generosity; It is taking care of others how you take care of yourself; It is not judging, because you accept others as they are, knowing that they are also Children of God and that they are equally under the care of God. It is happiness without measure, impossible to describe. It is feeling joy for the beauty of the world. It is life without limit and increased energy; It is health and it is the satisfaction of each of your needs, even before such need.”

“Why don't the rabbis tell us these things, said several people complaining?” “Because only I have seen the Father. Only I know how the world was made and the laws of existence, and because I know all these things, simply come to me and ask me and I will reveal to you everything that has been given to me. I tell you truly: if you believe and understand that you try to put my word into practice every day, you will be saved from the tribulation that humanity endures. You suffer because you do not understand how you were created, nor the true purposes for which you were born. You were born to be children and heirs of the Father, but you turn your back on all the Glory of the Kingdom and try to find pleasure in earthly things. As long as you do this, you will never find the Kingdom of God. “You will not enter the Kingdom of Heaven.” “How will we enter the Kingdom? I have already told you. You will enter the Kingdom of Heaven when you repent of all that you are in your heart and mind. When you take your evil to the Father and ask for forgiveness and the strength to be purified of your evil thoughts, words and actions and finally to get rid of them. Then you can be sure that you are about to find the Kingdom of Heaven. When you have achieved that, you will see that your attitudes towards others change, since the Father is doing his work of love within you. You will be free from the chains and bonds of evil desires and acts that previously bound you and made you captive in the world. More than that, you will understand that the Father meets all your needs.” A woman shouted: “I have a need right now, Master. I'm hungry”. The people laughed, but then several voices joined his saying: “We have been with you for many hours. You have made us walk and walk, before agreeing to teach us. We have shown you that we are good sheep” “Won't you help us satisfy our hunger?”. I realized that they were telling the truth and I felt deep compassion for them. They had followed me, not only for healing, but because they longed to know the truth as it had been given to me by the Father. He had told them that the Father met all their needs. This would be an opportunity to show them the power of faith and the power that is God. I would show them that nothing is impossible when you really believe as I believed and perceived. I called my disciples closer and asked them to check if anyone was present who had food. They found a boy with bread and fish and brought them to me. I stood back from the crowd quietly, contemplating the bread and the fish, knowing that they were nothing but the God-Power-Mind, the substance of all matter made visible. I knew that God-Power-Mind was limitless and powerfully active within My consciousness. He knew that the nature of the Father is need satisfaction.

As I blessed the food I felt the Power flow through my mind, body and hands, and I knew that the people's hunger would be satisfied. I didn't know how, I just knew it would be that way. Then I carried the baskets of food and told the disciples to distribute it. Feeling absolutely confident that everyone would have as much food as they needed. As the food was broken and passed around, it multiplied until the entire crowd was fed and satisfied. There were several baskets of leftovers and thus I demonstrated that through the vibration of the "notes", which science calls particles, as a consequence of the images/movement powerfully directed, disciplined, focused by the energy of the Mind/Consciousness, in addition The only limits of the loving work of the Father within the world are the limits that fix the mind of man in that work, being in perfect harmony and united with the Universal Consciousness of the Father. Although there was astonishment among the people and my disciples, when the people received food in this way none of them understood how such a thing was carried out. They could only conclude: "This was the greatest miracle they had ever seen!" . He also confirmed to them their belief that I was the Son of God. On another occasion, I was sitting under a tree on the outskirts of Bethetha, surrounded by the people who had brought them to be healed. As always, they were amazed to see the return of life and health to these people. and they asked themselves: "How could such miracles be done?" Again try to make them understand the power of faith. In the gospels it has been stated that I said, "If a man had faith the size of a mustard seed, he could move mountains." This statement is an incorrect interpretation of what I truly said and reveals how little my disciples and the evangelists understood of my teachings when we were on Earth. If someone had faith the size of a mustard seed, what would it mean? How can faith be measured in such a way? What is faith?: It is a power of total conviction in the mind, possessing the mind and cannot be subjected to a size. Faith that arises from the need to believe in something, because such belief will serve your purposes in some way, can be powerful and strong, but it can never be estimated under a concept of size.

The belief is even stronger. Belief is the fruit of knowing something through hearsay and logic, because you have heard and are convinced that what you have heard or read is true, you develop a deep belief in what you have heard. You believe it's true. You believe in a total and complete way that defies any contradiction. I constantly told people: "Believe, you will receive and you will receive." However, I knew then that it would be almost impossible for people to one day have the faith to perform miracles, since if I explained the Truth to them no matter what, they would still lack the intense knowledge that was given to me in the desert, but now when I relate to some extent The story of my stay on Earth, in Palestine, is with the intention that you, my reader, will begin to perceive and understand the knowledge that was given to me during my Enlightenment. My intention is to give you knowledge. Knowing something by hearsay is what you hear from someone but you cannot really prove that it is true. Knowledge is when you are told something or when you read something, and since what you have heard or read now agrees logically and realistically with all the things of knowledge already related in your mind and you can understand and believe it realistically and logically . New information becomes knowledge. You know that what you now know is true. You have a sense of conviction. Until now some of you have had faith in Jesus Christ, but you have been like capricious children. Your faith has been partly blind and intolerant, yet interwoven with much doubt. Therefore what you needed done would depend on Jesus to get the work done. But in reality, much of what you believe you have received from Jesus, it has been your own faith in Jesus that has become visible in the form of the things requested. Although this naive faith is very important for your well-being, you who are capable of advancing on the spiritual path towards perfection, must now reach a deeper level of true knowledge of the relationship between mind and matter. Without this foundation people will continue to become entangled in religious myths and remain imprisoned in the misery of the human condition.

When I was on Earth I told the Truth to people, but it was constantly misinterpreted. What I really said regarding faith was this: "Look at this great tree. It has grown from the smallest seed imaginable, see the branches and their luxuriance from the enormous trunk. All this enormous growth has come from a small seed. "How did such a thing happen?" "Where does all the wood of the tree and the foliage that adorns it come from?" "Isn't this as miraculous as the miracles that I performed for you day after day?" Is not the growth of this tree the work of the Father, as much as the healing that occurs in sick people? "I ask you: "what is a seed. Can you tell me?" "No, you cannot, but I will tell you: "It is a tiny entity of knowledge of consciousness. It is the knowledge of consciousness of what it will become. It is a fragment of consciousness drawn from the divine creative consciousness. It is a fragment of the power of the mind from the power of the Mind of the Father, which when planted in the Earth and watered by the rain will begin to clothe itself with the visible matter of which it has knowledge deep within its being. inside. This knowledge is true, it is firm, it is strong and constant. This self-knowledge embodied in the seed is a conviction of conscience. All forms of life arise from this one self-knowledge, a conviction of conscience. This conviction of conscience is what separates the inanimate earth and rocks from everything that lives and grows on the face of the Earth." "Where there is no conviction of conscience or knowledge of identity, there is no growth. The consciousness within the earth and rocks remains as consciousness in a latent form, so if you could believe in what you ask for as powerfully as the mustard seed knows its own identity you could do anything you wanted and if you could carry within the mind a seed, the perfected plan of your most heartfelt objectives and knowing beyond any doubt that it can grow and reach perfect fulfillment, you could see this wonderful seed take on a life of its own that would soon manifest in your life and you could, with complete security move the mountains of your lives, the mountains that cross your path and prevent you from achieving everything you want. Mountains that in moments of recklessness and bad thinking you have created yourselves."

"If you only understood Creation and existence, you could live a life of total freedom, limitless feats, and transcendent joy. Seek understanding and little by little you will see that understanding will be found. Knock on the door of the Universe that gives access to God, the Universal Consciousness of the Father and finally the door will open to you and you will find the entrance to the secrets of the World.

Just believe and you will receive.” He also reminded them of this at all times: “Only those of pure mind and heart will do these powerful things. The wicked may prosper for a time as kings and plundering armies and others have done, heaping up iniquity in their minds. They have been allowed to do their work for a time, for some good comes from evil, but in the end they will fail and the rest of the world will speak abuse against their names. Therefore those of you who want to be successful, examine your motivations. Desires that arise simply from selfish desire for wealth or comfort ultimately end in disappointment, illness, and death.” “And I say to you, who read these words: let no one dare deny the Truth that I speak until they too have followed the path of self-renunciation that I walked on Earth and have achieved the same union with the Father and the heights of knowledge and indisputable understanding that I possess!” “When you have achieved all this, you will no longer have any desire to deny the Truth that I tell you, but you will not be able to contain yourself and join me in teaching your neighbor. Until then be at peace and let no man know your ignorance.” “How often throughout the world do people gladly embrace my teachings, for their highest morality and for being the most perfectly formulated principles of good behavior in daily living?” However, they quickly add that miracle stories should be discounted since such aberrations of natural laws are not possible. This kind of thinking raises barriers to the future progress of spiritual scientific development of which the human mind is capable. In fact I did not come to Earth to present a new religion or a higher moral code than that given by Moses in the Ten Commandments.

My purpose was to bring a new perception of God as Creator and the understanding of existence itself. From this knowledge a new way of living would emerge. The correct attitude toward My mission on Earth in this third millennium is to recognize that the miracles I perform are beyond the capacity of the average human being at this time. However, such miracles served as an example of what can be achieved in the future, when the minds of the people are fully imbued with the true knowledge of existence and are also, through faith, meditation and prayer, fully attuned and imbued with Universal Life/Love Consciousness. It was truly true that I walked on water when my disciples embarked to cross the lake. If you have read the biblical account of this incident, you will realize that my disciples had left me behind. I longed for the opportunity to remove myself from all human contact, to retreat to the hills, to once again enter into deep meditation, allowing my consciousness to merge into the universal dimension of God Consciousness. While I was in this spiritual state, which transcends human consciousness, all physical knowledge disappeared and I was lifted up in ecstasy within the Universal Current and knew that Universal Life is everything. Life was the reality of my being and everything else was changeable, transitory appearances of universal life made visible.

I knew, I felt that I was Life itself and that by entering the Consciousness of Life beyond earthly consciousness, the laws that governed my physical being were transcended and no longer applied to the flesh and blood of my human body. I longed to move in this new transcendent state and I saw myself floating out of the cave. I saw my disciples at the lake and knew they were in danger. Effortlessly I floated down the hill towards the shore and as I began to contact my normal human affairs again, in this case my disciples, I found myself treading on the waters. However I was still in that condition in which I fully realized that I Myself was the individualized Life and therefore my body was bathed by the power of Life that continued to lighten and transform the atomic structure of my physical state. You must understand that hearing and thinking about the state of human consciousness and the Ascension in the transcendent understanding of the Universal Life, when the personal consciousness is there separated from the bodily condition and fully merged in the Universal Consciousness of the Father, belong to two dimensions totally different from being.

Human consciousness can receive inspiration from the Universal Consciousness of the Father, but the inspiration received is intertwined with the human condition and is frequently misinterpreted, according to the store of knowledge that already controls the brain and therefore mental processes. per se. Unfortunately the inspiration you receive is contaminated and distorted by current strongly held beliefs. Since the transcendent perceptual state and understanding arises, emerges from the physical condition, it no longer controls the brain, it no longer influences the transcendent perceptual state that is Truth itself, it is no longer controlled or affected by human belief. It is in a state of what really is behind visible manifestation and existence, rather than being in the human dimension of what existence is believed to be. It is in the state of transcendent consciousness that miracles are nothing more than the normal work of universal law.

Before continuing with this narrative of My Life on Earth, I want to emphasize again that everything in the Universe is a state of particular, individualized consciousness made visible. I have had to descend from my current state of consciousness of Universal Love, in order to experience again My life on Earth that remains indelibly imprinted within the energy of the consciousness of the World itself, which goes back to the moment of its Creation.

You must understand that when I left my body in Palestine, I left behind everything that belonged to that life. I had fulfilled My mission, therefore when I died on the cross I was liberated, I was elevated in glorious Light to participate in the Light to be the Light and to rejoice in the Light, which is Universal Love, Life, Beauty, Harmony, Bliss and Ecstasy. Moving between different levels of consciousness is not an easy or pleasant subject, it is only because My mission on Earth had not been completed when I died in Palestine, so now I return to help you prepare your entry into the New Age, a phase new of individualized existence on Earth. You may understand what I mean by the discomfort of this event if you remember some deep sadness that occurred in your life and see that you react with almost the same degree of tension and emotional stress as when the event occurred to you.

Reflecting on some past suffering or sorrow will make you want to cry. You will feel the return of the original depression and anguish as you relive that one in your imagination. You may want to withdraw from people, because your consciousness has already descended from your previous state of happy balance and peace, to once again experience the vibrations and forms of lower consciousness that you created in the initial moment of your suffering.

The change in mood indicates a change in your energies of consciousness. A rise in the vibrations of consciousness will give you a mental, emotional and physical elevation making you feel happy. A drop in your consciousness energies will depress the functioning of your entire system and you will feel the beginning of a depression or at least a drop from the previous optimism that you enjoyed. I am explaining to you a fact of existence, your entire Universe manifests the different vibration frequencies of the energy particles of consciousness. As the frequencies move up or down from one level to another and also the physical and visible structures manifest different energy levels and there is a change in mental and emotional patterns and appearance. As I descend from my state of consciousness to re-enter the conditions of my time on Earth, I am moved only by my Love for Humanity. For 2,000 years, Christians have been reliving the trauma of my crucifixion. Some people have even experienced stigma which is nothing more than a morbidly emotional hysterical response to what they believe happened to me. People are excited to a point similar to frenzy as they imagine the anguish of my suffering before my death. Their emotional gratitude for what I endured causes them to be in a state of physical distress. This is being written on Good Friday and I have come especially to talk to you about my crucifixion and to tell you that you must abandon all drama regarding the memory of this day. I died and that was a wonderful liberation for Me. It is time for people to wake up from their long, long sleep and come to understand existence for what it really is and the truth with Good Friday year after year through the centuries a state of being of traumatic consciousness has been created and contaminated throughout the World, as far from the spiritual dimension of the Universal Creative Consciousness as hell is from Heaven.

Now that I have chosen to relive My life on Earth in the person of Jesus, through the mind of someone who receives My words in order to help the World move towards a new phase of spiritual/mental development, I ask to those who can receive my words, to stop this practice of remembering my death and exercising physical self-denial during the Lenten fast, to commemorate my 40 days in the desert. As you must realize from this narrative, my time in the desert was one of great joy and blessing of spirit. Many events of great spiritual significance occurred just before my death, which are magnificent examples of the great Cosmic Laws at work within your dimension of existence. I am now giving you a brief account of those important events, because my purpose is to completely illuminate your mind and give you knowledge beyond any knowledge received by anyone else in your Universe.

When I began to prepare my disciples for my approaching death, I had a terribly difficult task. They could barely contain their shock and amazement. To think that they were going to crucify me like a common criminal was disgusting, inexpressible, and they didn't want to let me out of their sight either. I had called them to follow me and leave behind their lives that had been quite prosperous. They had left their families and their homes to rebuild their lives around Me and My Work. They had been proud of my tour of the cities. They had been willing to associate with me and were known as my disciples, despite the rejection and harsh criticism of the religious leaders, what's more, they loved and respected me both for my way of living my own teachings and for the The way he healed so many people with compassion, and how he brought comfort to their miserable lives, they truly believed that he was the Son of God. How could the Son of God end up on the cross? they asked themselves. The fear increased with each question. It was unthinkable. They felt that a tremendous void was opening up in front of them. A void in their lives and a huge crater in the Earth where they stood and a vast expanse of instability and purposelessness within themselves. They did not dare to contemplate my upcoming crucifixion that I was telling them about. Such an event would destroy everything they had believed with all their hearts. Consequently my disciples strongly and loquaciously resisted what I was trying to tell them and stated again and again that such a thing could never happen. By standing firm against their negative fences they were eventually forced to silence their arguments and outwardly accept that such a thing might be possible. I told them that after My death they would see Me again and I hoped that they would continue the Work that I had undertaken.

The pain and discussions that I had aroused in my disciples also affected me deeply. It was not an easy undertaking to go to Jerusalem, where My destiny awaited me. More than anything, I wondered if I would be up to this great challenge to My resistance. Would I be able to transcend the physical condition and enter the consciousness of the Universal Father and stay there until I died? There were times when I was deeply frightened by the trial, but I did not dare reveal my fear to my disciples, so I began my final journey to Jerusalem with powerfully mixed feelings. On the one hand I was tired of healing and talking and teaching people who listened with their mouths open, without having any understanding of anything I was trying to tell them. I had thought that my knowledge would allow people to come out of their misery and at least make contact with the Father and gain a glimpse of the Kingdom of Heaven. There was no evidence of such spiritual awakening even among my disciples. My disappointment and sense of failure made me glad to leave earthly life for the Glorious existence that I knew awaited me after my death. At the same time I asked myself: How was I going to resist the pain of crucifixion?

Throughout My mission I had lived in a more or less consistently peaceful state of mind, frequently exalted with thoughts fixed on the loving consciousness of the Father, Author of all being, knowing that I only had to ask for whatever I asked for, and it would quickly be manifested. Could I maintain my equanimity when I was brought before the council and led to my crucifixion? When they would nail me to the cross, with my weight hanging from my hands? Because it was giving rise to doubts and fears, the normal level of my frequencies of consciousness was lowered. I was being lowered to the frequencies of Earth plane consciousness. I once again became a victim of my old aggression that incited me towards unreasonable acts, which I would never have contemplated before when I was in my previous state of total harmony with the loving consciousness of the Father. My doubts and conflicts were externalized in My life, as human emotions and impulses that contravened the Cosmic Law of Love. First the episode of the fig tree occurred. I was hungry and went to the tree not really expecting to find fruit because it was not the season for figs. Seeing that the search was fruitless, I cursed the fig tree. 24 hours later it had withered to the roots. It was a terrible experience. It was the first time that my words had caused harm to anything, yet it clearly demonstrated to my disciples the power of thought. For better or worse, I showed them that the more spiritually evolved an older person is, is the impact of their words on the environment.

I took advantage of the opportunity to point out to My disciples that I had behaved without thinking, like the average man or woman does who, having high hopes, does not get what they want. They usually react with anger, tears and even sharp words that may or may not be a kind of wishing badly or cursing the person who has denied them the desired wish. They had already seen for themselves what My curse had done to the fig tree. You should now understand that while a strong conviction could grant you anything you could desire or imagine, you should also be constantly aware of your own emotional mental condition. They should not bear grudges against others, but should forgive quickly, otherwise they could do a lot of harm to those against whom they resent, which would be returned to them in due time as the harvest of their sowing, what is more, according to you sow you reap. I knew that what I had done to the fig tree would inevitably come back to me in some way or another. I took my disciples to the temple. Many years had passed since I was there and I knew that my visit would serve to establish the events that would lead to my crucifixion. Some people recognized me and in response to their requests I began to teach them. More people gathered and the moneylenders gathered together and began to complain. Their shouts and loud complaints broke my train of thought as I taught. I suddenly became angry. There were sincere people here who surrounded me wanting to hear words of Life, which soon I would not be able to tell them and there were the moneylenders who lived selling livestock for sacrifices that did no good to the people. These men only brought debt and misery to the people. I felt the blood rush to my head and, pushing the tables, I knocked them over, scattering the money, and I drove the hard-hearted men who thought only of money out of the temple.

Then there was a tremendous commotion of shouts and screams. Some fought to collect the money. The moneylenders cursed me, denouncing me as evil or as if I did the work of "Beelzebub and a thousand other demons." The priests and the Pharisees and all the people who highly valued the temple sacrifices came running together to find out the cause of the noise and confusion. Upon hearing what the moneylenders said, they were so aggrieved by my actions that they launched into vociferous condemnation and lamentations against me to impress the priests.

Each one surpassing his partner. Making louder and louder protests to show their horror at what I had done. Never before had such a thing been seen in the temple, even those who had heard me before were upset by my intention and asked themselves: What kind of man could I be? They were grouped, standing, watching the events. When they were approached by the priests and the Pharisees who persuaded them that I was trying to destroy everything they believed in, preaching a false god totally different from what they had heard in the synagogues. The priests conveyed their own unbridled anger to the people and convinced them that my sin would contaminate them too if they insisted on listening to my follies. Gradually the people became convinced that I was an evil influence and that they should eliminate me, before I could disturb the peace of the country and bring down the wrath of the Roman governor upon the whole country of Palestine.

My disciples, ashamed of what I had done, quietly left the scene and hid among the alleys at some distance from the temple. When they later returned to where I was, they clearly showed that they were deeply upset by my actions. They wondered if I had lost my mind or gone crazy prophesying my death and then doing those very things that would probably cause it. It was at that moment that Judas, who had never truly let go of his Jewish beliefs, began to doubt that I was the Messiah. After all, he had been teaching the people for three years and there was no diminution of Roman rule. Three years and the people were no closer to the happiness I had promised them and now it seemed I was about to become a disturber of the peace bringing the wrath of Rome upon their heads. He found out that the Jewish high priest wanted to get rid of me and therefore offered his services to identify my person when required. When it was time to celebrate Passover with my disciples, I planned to have dinner together in a large room. I knew it would be the last time I would eat food on Earth. I do not wish to return deeply to the consciousness of that night. I felt great sadness at leaving my disciples, who had served me so well. With my sadness all my fears and conflicts returned. I went through moments of deep emotional pity for myself. I felt like no one understood everything I had tried to do for my people and the sacrifice I was willing to make for them. John was giving a vivid telling of the story of the Israelites' last night in Egypt before escaping into the wilderness. He spoke of Moses' instructions to the head of each family, to kill a lamb without blemish, to cook it in a certain way and with the blood to paint the lintels of the Israelite dwellings, because that same night the angels would come to kill the firstborn sons. and the cattle of the Egyptians. With great enthusiasm he recalled the uproar of the Egyptians, who woke up to find the firstborn of each home covered in blood. No one was saved. It was the kind of horrible story that I rejected as having no value to the person seeking the highest spiritual truth. I wondered: How much had my disciples really understood when I spoke to them about their Heavenly Father and His Love for all humanity? How could they get excited about the thought of the angels, killing the firstborn of the Egyptians, when they had been told with complete clarity that God, the Father, was Love? But the Jews had always been concerned with shedding blood to atone for their sins. Even Abraham, the founder of the Israelite nation, was convinced that he should take his only son into the desert and kill him and offer him as a sacrifice to God. A pagan and disgusting thought. I thought about the animal sacrifices in the temple. Loving all living beings as I did, this practice was an abomination to me and now I was about to be taken to death, because I had dared to speak the words of Truth and when I considered how little I had achieved in transmit my knowledge, I asked myself: Why had I been entrusted with such a mission? I felt a momentary spasm of resentment and anger interwoven with my usual feelings of Love, so these men, with some cynicism, I asked myself: What effective memory could I leave them to bring back to their minds all my teachings when I was no longer with them? .

If you could so quickly forget all my teachings about the Love of the Father and enjoy the horrible story of Easter. While I was still in the room with them, how much would they remember when I died as a criminal on the cross, the most ignominious of deaths? It then occurred to me that if the bloodshed moved them so much, I would give them blood to To remember me with these ironic reflections, I took a piece of bread, broke it, passed it to my disciples and told them to eat it. I compared the breaking of bread to the future breaking of my body and asked them to repeat the breaking of bread and its distribution, as a means of remembering the sacrifice of my body to bring them the Truth, the truth about God and the truth about Life. The truth about Love. Realizing that I was in a strange mood, they stopped eating, listened, took the bread and ate it in silence. Then I took my cup of wine and passed it to them, saying that each one should drink from it, since it was a symbol of my blood. That it would soon be poured out because I had dared to bring them the Truth of existence. I noticed that my broken voice moved some of them. Soberly each one took a sip and then passed the glass to whoever was next to him, but they still didn't say anything. They sensed that he was serious and would not tolerate any more arguments. Then I told them that one of them would secretly betray me. I understood his motives and knew that he was a necessary piece of the future sequence of events. He was simply fulfilling the role that his nature had prompted him to do. I knew he would suffer greatly and I felt compassion for him, but I kept these thoughts to myself as I mentioned that one of them would betray me. I told Judas to go quickly do what he had to do. The disciples came to life wondering if this was really their last supper with me.

There was a lot of emotional distress, questions, even recriminations for having led them into such a trap. Again they asked themselves: What would they do with their lives after I left? Again they asked themselves: What kind of position would they have in the Community if I were crucified? They would be the object of ridicule, they said, arguing. No one would ever trust what they said again. Deeply saddened by their selfish response to my plight, I assured them that they need not fear for their own safety. They would abandon me and there would be no connection between them and my crucifixion.

I suggested to them that, after my death, they disperse and return to Galilee. Pedro was deeply moved and reacted vehemently, denying that he would ever abandon me but of course he did. In this moment of my own need I still found myself with a complete lack of understanding, even resistance after all the love I had felt for my neighbors and all I longed to accomplish for them. Their only concern was what would happen to them. There was no kind word, no offer of help, no anguish over my ordeal. How long the human heart lasted! Thought. How many painful centuries would have to pass before humanity could go beyond its own pain and suffering to perhaps feel a glimmer of love and compassion towards other unfortunate people who were in a worse situation than themselves! and so, although deeply disappointed and even hurt by their selfish reactions, I also understood them. I tried to give my disciples courage to face the future and assure them that I would always be with them, even when it was hidden from their sight.

The work that he had undertaken would be promoted from the life that is in the Hereafter. I wouldn't leave them alone. They would know and feel my presence, and this would comfort them. I told them to hold on to their memories of the time I had been with them. I warned them that there would be many who would continue with the knowledge they had been given, but that there would be people who would seek to add the voice of tradition and reason to my teachings. My words would be so distorted that the ending would no longer reveal the original Truth I had brought to the world. When I told them this would happen, they became upset even panicked. I was relieved to see that my teachings had not been in vain. After all, they had not fallen on completely deaf ears. They asked me to tell them more, but I threw up my hands and said "that was all I could say."

At this moment I felt like I had said everything I ever wanted to say while I was on Earth. That my speech with the men had been fulfilled. All I deeply longed for was to isolate myself in silence and find the peace and relief of contact with my Father. We left the supper room and walked to the Mount of Olives, but the mood of my disciples was one of inner conflict, fear and doubt. Most of them left to join their families and friends, who would be celebrating their own Easter. In the garden there was a special boulder in the shape of a small cave. I liked to take refuge from the wind within it, so I sat and cried, searching for a way into the exalted harmony I had previously enjoyed. I knew that when I tuned into the Love of the Father my fears would dissolve and I would be in a state of complete and utter trust filled with peace again.

As I felt the power of Love enter Me and take possession of My human consciousness, as well as the strength to endure what was coming upon me, it possessed my heart. Would I be able to stay within Love and give Love to others until the end?... and so it was. I will not even attempt to enter into the state of judgment and crucifixion. It's not important. When I finally died on the cross and my spirit withdrew from my tortured body, I was lifted up into a radiant, ineffable Light. I was enveloped in the warmth and comfort of Love such as I had never experienced before. He had a sense of enveloping praise, a powerful certainty of a job well done, of ecstasy in the Universal Force to continue the work, and of joy and rapture, which is far above anything the earthly condition can ever know. I entered a wonderfully beautiful new way of living, but I was still descending in consciousness to keep in touch with the people I had left behind. I could show myself to those who were sensitive enough to see me, however the story of Tomás, who supposedly put his fingers in my wounds, is nonsense. My disciples did not know that I had secretly arranged with Joseph of Arimathea, that after my death he would take my body to his own unused tomb, where he would anoint it according to custom. Before sunset, then when night fell and everyone in Jerusalem was observing Shabbat, helped by two trusted servants, on horseback, he would carry my body secretly during the night and along hidden paths by day, to a hillside in the outskirts of Nazareth in Galilee, there and helped by my family, if he followed my instructions he would find a small hidden cave that had given me shelter from storms and people when I was an unhappy and rebellious young man and was dissatisfied with the world. José promised me that he would find the cave following a map I had given him and that he would leave it after another embalming. I would rebuild the small entrance to completely block it from intruders. There my body has rested free of discomfort. "It has been said that my body rose from the dead." What an absurd thing invented by earthly minds, by those who did not know how to satisfactorily explain my death on the Cross, as an evildoer! What need would I have of an earthly body to continue existence in the next dimension? How can such a ridiculous myth persist, even in the 21st century?. This gives the measure of the lack of understanding of Christians, that they have blindly accepted such dogma until today. Think about this carefully. Having been delivered from an earthly body and after my experience of ecstasy and glorious rapture of passing into a sublime dimension of universal consciousness, why would I want to return to the earthly dimension to enter my body again? Of what use would it be to your world or to Mine, while the physical substance of my body could be spiritualized when it was perfectly harmonized with the loving consciousness of the Father, when I still lived on Earth? Would it not be a hindrance and an obstacle? for my subsequent travels within the higher spiritual realms?

Visible things are nothing more than a manifestation of specific vibratory frequencies in consciousness, which produce a "flicker" (scintillation) of specks or particles giving the appearance of solid matter. Each visible substance has its own vibration frequency. It is only a change in the proportion of vibrations. It produces a change in the aspect of matter, by changing the energies of consciousness the appearance of matter also changes, therefore it was possible that I would focus and lower the frequencies of my consciousness to such a point that my form would become visible to the human eye. I could return to my disciples and be seen by them and so I did. I loved them more than ever and owed them as much comfort and support as I was able to give them after my death. Not only this, it was necessary to direct my own power into their minds in order to give them the impetus and courage to continue the work I had undertaken. However, I want you to know that individualized consciousness that has ascended in vibrational frequencies to the very portals of the universal creative dimension becomes individualized light. An individualized consciousness that does not need any body to express and enjoy all that the Glorious Consciousness can devise in the higher Spiritual Realms. It is a supreme, ecstatic state of being, having none of the needs, desires or impulses experienced by those who have not fully risen beyond and above the ego. While living on Earth, your mind remains anchored within certain parameters of vibrational frequencies. Locked in a body that has its own needs. If your consciousness were truly elevated beyond these parameters, your earthly self would disappear. When I was trapped in a body, I was also largely confined to these parameters of vibrational frequencies and consciousness, what's more, imagination alone cannot rise beyond your previous experiences and therefore you are confined to your past, which you project into your future, however little by little you will be guided by those minds that are sensitive enough to enter the higher spiritual dimensions and that can move beyond your present limits of consciousness. They will record for you those wonderful experiences and states of being beyond your own to which you yourself can aspire. In this way you will advance towards levels or steps of spiritual development. Each step brings you a higher vision of what can be achieved and from this vision a new goal is formulated. With this goal always before you, you work to purify yourself from the contaminating influence of the impulses of adhesion, rejection of earthly existence. Step by step you transcend the ego. When you transcend the ego and it dies within your consciousness, you are already abundantly alive within the loving consciousness of the Father and you find the reality of the Kingdom of Heaven in your life, within yourself and in your environment. To enable you to reach these heights of love, joy, harmony and extras I lived, worked and died in Palestine and have now come to you in these letters. Don't let my work be in vain this Second Time.

As you read these pages, search, meditate and now to get inspiration you will come to feel the Father's response and if you listen carefully every day, you will hear the Father's voice. This voice is always with you. Remove barriers created by your own will. Open yourself to receive strength, power, inspiration and love directly from the loving consciousness of the Father. Read and reread these letters so that they can finally be absorbed into your consciousness. As you do so you will be traveling towards the Light and radiating Light to others. Such light is not light like that of electricity, but is of the same nature as the Universal Consciousness that I described to you in my letter number one. Therefore, as you radiate the Light, thus radiating unconditional Love will promote the spiritual growth and development of every other living entity. You will long to feed and nourish. You will work to promote protection, healing and education. You will wish to assist in the establishment of loving law and order in which all may live in harmony, success and prosperity. You will be in the Kingdom of Heaven.

At the same time, don't get your hopes up! As steps are taken to present these letters to the outside world, there will be exactly the same recriminations, the same condemnation, the same word from Satan as there was when he first taught in Palestine.

Courage! Pray to be brave. Those who endure to the end will rise above the confusion and violence and rest in the Peace and joy of the Kingdom.
