I welcome you to this space of connection and reflection in which we try to open awareness towards the understanding of the planetary and collective process that is currently being experienced.

Through this space I greet and honor each heart that is currently receiving this energy in its personal space. Thank you for opening and sustaining the momentum that this project generates. This project called Solar Consciousness, was born 6 years ago. From the beginning, the intention has been to create small groups or human cells that from their space support the understanding of the process that Mother Earth is experiencing. An understanding that goes beyond just a meditation and becomes a way of living life, since GAIA has generated the opening of the dimensional doors for the evolution and transformation of the collective consciousness of humanity.

Changing the way you relate to yourself, to others and to the world is a way to contribute to the planetary process. This collective process that GAIA is creating is a key moment for humanity through which the collective consciousness is receiving the opportunity to transform into new ways of interpreting reality, but to do so, it must first go through the dissolution of many systems of beliefs, whereby the process itself is being perceived through pain and some resistance before the transformation can take hold for humanity, just as in childbirth the mother experiences pain, the collective consciousness of humanity is experiencing the pain that arises from the transformation, as it progresses within the process of the Earth.

GAIA has launched the momentum of transformation and with them they are generating strong planetary movements, which human beings must try to receive from the understanding that everything that is happening is a call for attention that aims to ignite the flame of transformation and unity. for humans. Earthquakes, hurricanes and fires and rains, make up the events and movements that are taking place. Regardless of their natural or artificial origin. In each case, the Elementals of the earth intervene and affect humanity, mobilizing it beyond its comfort zone. It is true that human acts through weapons and technologies are capable of affecting the Earth, generating earthquakes and hurricanes and even climatic anomalies, but even so, GAIA sets the planetary elements in motion and these by themselves have the purpose of creating the alchemy for planetary transformation. The human being from his perspective of conqueror and predator may think that he is acquiring power over the Earth and humanity with his technology and weapons, however, who really has the power is the Great Mother GAIA. She is the one who sustains the consciousness of the elements and elementals, guiding them to project the necessary force that will generate an impact on the collective consciousness of humanity. Well, everything that happens outside is a reflection of what is happening inside each human being, therefore, even those rulers who experiment with weapons fulfill their role within the Planetary framework.

In GAIA's heart, everyone is loved and she knows what she does, her body is hers, despite the fact that human beings believe that it belongs to them. Within this planetary process, it is essential to acquire an observer position and calm the emotions, in order to reach an understanding of what is moving at a collective level. If you see conflict on the outside it is because that same conflict exists within you. As above, so below, and as inside, so outside. However, it is much easier for the ego to look outside and issue an opinion or choose a side. The Great Mother GAIA is creating a great momentum of transformation and it is time for humanity to take responsibility for it, creating the space for understanding and compassion instead of continuing in struggle and separation. Everything that is happening is part of the planetary process and it is necessary to understand it in order to assume the place that corresponds to each one. This is not the time to look at planetary events from fear or a feeling of victimization and anger. It is time to mature and take responsibility for the changes that have to manifest. You cannot continue blaming the rulers who experiment with weapons, believing that only they generate toxic effects on Earth, while in daily life you find yourself in conflict with yourself and with others, living through criticism, judgment, fear and envy.

Human thoughts and feelings can be as toxic and destructive as a nuclear weapon. So it is necessary to go beyond the perspective of victims and perpetrators, assuming responsibility for the planetary events that are happening now. Transform yourself and heal your own toxicity instead of wanting to transform the consciousness of others. Human arrogance always pretends to want to change the person next to you, the one you consider is hurting you because it does not imply looking at yourself and changing. Blaming others will always be easier. Believing that it is others who cause you harm, instead of realizing that you also cause harm. If you want a change in your life, first you are the one who must change. You live permanently in a state of war and you are not aware of it, because that state is a belief system to which humanity has become accustomed. Living from the separation is living permanently without compassion, which is reflected in their daily reality. As soon as something happens, they always seek to find a culprit, instead of assuming responsibility for the immediate reality and for the effects that it is producing inside. Living in the consciousness of victimization is living from the separation. It is living placing in others the power that you should assume in yourself. You are not victims of your rulers because they are a reflection of what you are as a collective. As individuals you are not victims of others because they are a reflection of who you are as an individual. When someone offends you or hurts you, they are only reflecting on you those fears and insecurities that you have hidden. In other cases, someone who hurts you comes to shake your reality like an earthquake to move to the point of transformation, which you could not reach by yourself. Well, everything that happens is an agreement between souls and for this reason it is necessary to stop victimizing and learn.

Assume power from within and transcend pain, to turn it into strength fueling the drive for transformation. Everything that is happening on the planet has a beginning and an end. Everything has a purpose and it is necessary to understand it, in order to assume the responsibility that corresponds to each one as individuals. We are going to review the different parts of the planetary process. The Earth has already entered the photon band and by itself the light is producing an awakening and a transformation for humanity. This is an evolutionary moment like many others have existed in different Eras of life on the planet. The difference is that on this occasion the Earth is populated by billions of human beings and each one of them has a consciousness capable of creating their own reality, with which what would have to be experienced as a natural process of transition, it is living from fear and chaos generating resistance to the transformation itself. This natural process of the Earth involves all layers of planetary consciousness, physical, energetic and spiritual. The Earth is opening the doors to the higher dimensions in consciousness and in the physical. The chaos that lives outside is a reflection of the chaos that human consciousness has inside. Therefore, before giving an opinion and taking a position on what is happening in society and in the world, first look at what is happening inside you. Observe yourself, sit down, what moves you, what emotions are awakened in you by planetary and collective events. You look for guilty Do you think there is someone or something that must be defeated to achieve balance or peace? Natural disasters will lead you to victimize people, while social conflicts will lead you to choose a side. In all cases, however, the Earth does not need further separation. Earth does not need humanity to continue to live in conflict with each other. So watch your conscience and dare to go beyond duality. What will create planetary change will be the transcendence of separation, therefore humanity needs more mediators to wake up, people who see beyond duality and judgment, people who see beyond the position of victim and perpetrator.

Peace will be created when the parties in conflict find the balance point in which all can coexist. That is the kind of peace that lasts, because until now humanity has tried to create peace by choosing a winning side, believing that one is right and the other is wrong, silencing the voices that ask to be heard. Nobody is absolutely right. Each being has its share of reason, and one position is not more valid than another. Humanity needs to create space so that each being can be heard, so that each being can live their truth and not be judged by it, and just as in the collective reality there are social conflicts, in the personal reality there are internal conflicts, which also need resolution. Planetary peace will be achieved to the extent that human beings achieve peace within themselves, because remember that you are the observers and creators of the reality in which you live, and therefore the responsibility is yours. However, if in your own individual fractal of reality, you live in constant conflict with yourself and with those around you, how can you expect peace to emerge on the planet? If each human being lives in constant inner conflict if they constantly seek to convince others of their truth instead of living fully and being happy with who they are. To create peace in the world, it will first have to be created within. The recent earthquake in Mexico City showed them that together they can do much more than apart. But why wait until something of that magnitude happens? This is the right time to create change. Each one in their own consciousness and in their individual reality, it is necessary to reach the point of inner balance in which your own duality can be transcended. Your ego and your spirit. Your light and your darkness. Your feminine and your masculine. Create unity from within your own being and transcend fear. The entire humanity is being called evolution. The light itself that flows from the very center of the Galaxy, through the planetary frameworks, continues to mobilize consciousness and it is time to act from love, understanding and compassion. Respect yourself and respect your neighbor. Shake hands and learn together, opening the doors of consciousness toward expansion.

With infinite Love from space where everything is One.
